GoArt! Offers Green Design Tours Through Berlin

Sustainability does not only consist of ecological but also of cultural, creative and social aspects. Our innovative "Green Design"- tours, created with the usual quality, are aimed at journalists, travel agencies, multiplications from various backgrounds and visitors of Berlin to introduce them to the experience of Berlin's creative, ecological, fair, i.e. sustainable areas of life and lifestyle.

Our focus lies primarily on areas and districts such as Mitte, Prenzlauer Berg and Kreuzberg where we give an exciting and attractive insight into "Green Design" made in Berlin. You will get to know well-known design stores and newcomers from Berlin's fashion scene: interior designers, architectural and urban gardening projects, artists but of course also restaurants whose main focus of their creative work is sustainability. Our aim is to bring to your attention the fresh, famously colorful, exclusive and, of course, the conscious and responsible Berlin.

The tours can be designed based on these two modules:

- By foot: Always a new and changing, but certainly an authentic and immediate insight into the current districts and popular areas without rejecting the other famous highlights of Berlin.
- By bus: Here we can give our guests a compact, individually designed overview of various areas of Berlin including less-travelled areas. With the availability of several busses it is also possible to accommodate larger groups.

As usual GoArt!'s tours are conducted by well-informed and qualified guides: we work with art historians, architects, artists and designers.

Did we catch your attention?

We are looking forward to having guests who are visiting Berlin for the first time or those who want to see the city in a new light: exclusive, creative, sustainable and conscious.

Castello Di Vicarello Welcomes Guests to Thanksgiving in Italy

The Castello di Vicarello, the 900-year-old castle that has been transformed into a seven-suite luxury retreat with organic vineyards, restaurant and olive orchards, has introduced a new package to welcome guests to Thanksgiving in Tuscany.

For the week of November 21-28, 2010 (Sunday to Sunday), guests can book the entire property in the Maremma region of southern Tuscany for their exclusive family holiday retreat for Euro 26,000 (approximately US$36,355), a savings of more than $8,000 off the regular rate.

In addition to exclusive use of the Castello di Vicarello, the whole family can indulge in the authentic Tuscan farm-to-table cuisine produced by owner Aurora Baccheschi Berti and her team of chefs, who prepare feasts of rustic seasonal cuisine in the Castello's open kitchen, all sourced from their own organic gardens. In preparation for their Thanksgiving meal, guests can even participate in a hunting excursion to the Castello's exclusive nearby Valle di Buriano estate, where they can hunt wild boar, quail and partridge. And to pair with their rich Thanksgiving cornucopia, guests can enjoy the estate's award-winning red wines, the Castello di Vicarello and the Terre di Vico. And when the Thanksgiving feasts are over, guests can relax, stretch and soak at the Castello di Vicarello's Ayurvedic spa with a massage, yoga lesson or visit to the hot tub, sauna and Turkish bath.

About Castello Di Vicarello

Set on 60 acres of natural landscape with some of the most spectacular vistas of Italy, Castello di Vicarello is a restored 12th-century medieval castle surrounded by vineyards, lush gardens and centuries-old olive groves in the Maremma region of southern Tuscany. The property has been meticulously restored with seven suites, featuring original details and Eastern design accents. Special features include a farm-to-table restaurant, Italy's first infinity pool, an organic vineyard and Ayurvedic spa. Special guest activities include on-property cooking classes, the annual organic olive oil press and wild-boar hunting excursions on the Castello's exclusive Valle di Buriano estate.
